

Dr. Ahmed Kamel

Dr. Ahmed Kamel serves as a senior key expert additive manufacturing and innovation for Siemens Energy, USA and as an adjunct professor of Social Entrepreneurship at Rollins College.

Biography

Dr. Kamel has more than two decades experience in the power generation industry with a focus on system thinking to drive material and manufacturing innovation. He is a certified innovation engineering professional with significant international experience and has more than 100 awarded patents in the US, Europe, and Asia. His current research focuses on leveraging AI to drive the development of new materials for gas turbine applications with significant reduction in time to market. Dr. Kamel is also active in teaching and mentoring business students in leveraging AI for system thinking to tackle wicked problems.